DAVE PINKERTON'S 35TH ANNIVERSARY WITH GE BRINGS TO MIND....

"Numerous Talented and Competent People"

WHO'VE SERVED WITH HIM OR UNDER HIS DIRECTION IN RECENT YEARS

A 35th anniversary with GE is quite an achievement in itself...but it's especially satisfying when you can look back and see a huge array of landmarks in the growth of the GE businesses ...landmarks in which you and your associates played a vital role.

It's this sense of satisfaction that Dave Pinkerton is now experiencing...and he's quick to salute the numerous talented and competent people who've served with him or under his direction in recent years in bringing about the achievements he views so proudly.

Serving since July of this year as consultant to the Telecommunication Products Department, Dave had been, since October 1969, manager of TPD's Power Line Carrier Operation.

Dave was born at Montrose Colorado, and educated at Carnegie Institute of Technology (now Carnegie-Mellon University) where he was a Distinguished Graduate (with highest scholastic honors). He earned the MSEE degree in 1939. Here at Lynchburg, assignments included that of manager of engineering for the Communication Products Department and, earlier, manager of advance engineering for CPD.

Before this, in the mid-fifties, Dave was manager-advanced products and also consulting engineer with the Electronics Laboratory at Syracuse. In the early 50's he served as manager of power line carrier engineering in what was then GE's Commercial Equipment Department. The 1940's saw Dave in various engineering assignments in GE's radio transmitter businesses (primarily aircraft transmitters).

The "highlights" or the "landmarks" of Dave's career would fill many pages, since he has been associated in one way or another with so many phases of development of GE's communication products. We asked Dave to pick out just a few that stand out in his mind.

"The events culminating in the dedication, on April 13, 1973, of the one million volt AC production assembly and test facility for PLC line equipment were certainly memorable," says Dave. The design and construction of this facility were completed on a timely basis with respect to the needs of the business. This involved an investment by the company of approximately $1.5 million."

When Dave was manager of engineering for CPD, there were many new product introductions; a few which stand out in Dave's mind include the development of the MASTR and Porta-Mobil product lines; the all solid state 6 GHz_z microwave for PSIT; the TCS-600 multiplex improvements and the PCM cable carrier (digital) compatible with Western Electric DL and T1 repeated line; and, what Dave remembers as "most challenging": the gas free coupling capacitors for power line carrier--with the "best reliability and life in the industry," as Dave puts it.

Many achievements also took place during Dave's stint as manager of advance engineering. Again, a few of the highlights: First solid state personal radio; first solid state decoder for mobile telephone service; and the introduction of wave filter design technology to the Communication Products Department.

Still, Dave views the past five years--when he was with the Power Line Carrier Operation--as "the most satisfying period of the past 35 years." He got out a memo to his PLCO associates taking note of this not long ago, in which he called the past five years "satisfying--because of the achievements that all of you have worked hard to bring about - and grateful to you for your contributions to these achievements."
